THE CREATIVE MATTERS

Article Shared by Muhammad Waqas (Lahore)

Pakistan... It's something part of my entity. I belong to the family who travelled across Arabian deserts to settle in this land of God. They had to migrate within this Indus soil many time before and after independence. My Immediate forefather had to start their lives a couple of time from scratch in this homeland yet they had marvelous satisfaction, courage and hope within which even can't be seen in people living for centuries here. They share stories hardship of freedom struggle, living in shelters, Hajji Camps & moving on and on never complaining for anything. I think I inherited the same love & spirituality for this homeland instead of biasness

& prejudices. I started my life from zero itself, with no vision & clear path to but by the Grace of Allah almighty, this homeland created paths for me to follow and made me what I am, and will be whole my Life."

"If I have to tell why I love Pakistan, I seriously won't be able to put words to it. I think love knows no reason no expectations, pre-conditions to exist. I don't have any contradictions associated; it has my identity, my religion everything. Sometimes like a perfect motherhood. Finally If Pakistan is dragged out of me, there won't be anything but a shallow structure or living thing will be left."

"I know one thing, Pakistan came into being when my Holy Prophet (Peace Be Upon Him) predicted about it & When He (Peace Be Upon Him) forgave the Taif people for their brutality. It just got the name of 'Pakistan'. We have disintegrated in 1970 and many time before it as well, so we can be in future as well, but every time we fall we get up with new zeal and courage. It's not confined to a piece of Land or any ethnic group. In fact let me say currently most of the people living in it doesn't really belong to it specially people who matter the most."

"So talking about the future of identity & ideology of Pakistan, it will exist and remain till the Dooms day, till as single person who belongs to the Prophet of God (Peace Be Upon Him) & the way of Life Allah send to us. People living in this piece of land will learn their lesson hard way and we will eventually rise to the sky. We are very fertile nation producing traitors but we too had some gems who sacrificed their lives & honor even for it. So hopes are high and I believe that 60 plus years are too few to judge the fate & course of Pakistan
